Misery Loves Comedy ... neat cards for messy moments™. Want a card about trying to outrun family baggage? Interested in hearing what reactions you don't want from a therapist? Welcome to the world where misery meets comedy – wait, that is our world! “Life hits many of us with some incredibly painful moments,” says company owner and former psychotherapist Elizabeth Hofheinz. “Laughter often arises from a place of anguish, and leaves us perhaps just a bit lighter, and somewhat further along the path of healing.”

And Hofheinz should know. “Like many people, I have had some searing personal challenges,” she says. “In general, I have had countless opportunities to observe the human condition. We creatures are fascinating in our complexity and are, frankly, a wonder to behold,” states Hofheinz. “Our expectations, hidden frustrations, and odd thoughts are all just waiting for the comedian in any of us to shine a light on them. We’ll surely cry about some of it, but we might as well laugh too because we can’t avoid reality.”

“Each of Elizabeth’s cards strikes a chord on the human condition that is instantly recognizable and instantly funny,” says Sue Jenkins, owner of Luckychair.com, a web design studio and greeting card company.
